

CSPA Members Elect Officers and Directors for 2011

Elected Members to Assume Roles and Responsibilities at the Start of the New Year

WASHINGTON, DC – Representatives of the member companies of the Consumer Specialty Products Association (CSPA) elected their 2011 Officers and Directors during the business session of the organization's 97th Annual Meeting recently held in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The newly elected, along with individuals retaining roles, will assume their responsibilities at the start of the New Year. Included among those moving into new roles will be 2011 CSPA Chairman of the Board John Abplanalp, president and CEO of Precision.

"As we conclude a successful year under the leadership of Adam Selisker, I am confident that our momentum will continue throughout 2011," said Chris Cathcart, CSPA President. "The CSPA Board of Directors continues to attract high-caliber industry leaders who help establish direction on a variety of public policy issues where we can be proactive at all levels of government."

CSPA officers and directors are elected by active members and serve a term of one year. The Board of Directors election is established to represent the diversity of businesses comprising CSPA's membership.
